Achieve your goals with MicroEdge Consulting Services

Selecting MicroEdge as your technology provider is a decision confirmed by thousands of organizations. Getting the most from your technology investment requires an intelligent, well-designed implementation strategy. Before proceeding with your implementation, you will likely have a host of questions and concerns:

- How do I go about organizing a system implementation project involving various groups in my firm?
- How do I gather the appropriate information and feedback during the planning process to ensure a successful implementation?
- What MicroEdge resources are available to help my staff tackle an implementation project?
- How do I ensure that I meet my required implementation timeline?

The Internet Grants Application Module (IGAM) enables grant makers to accept grant applications and proposals via the web. IGAM will increase the quality of the grant submissions you review while significantly reducing the work required to process them.

Service Description:

The online application development service (OADS) is designed for new or existing customers that want to maximize their investment in IGAM 2.0. Effective online applications should achieve four major goals:

- 1) Reduce the quantity of proposals that do not meet program guidelines
- 2) Increase the quality of proposals that do meet guidelines by having the application contain all information required to make an informed funding decision
- 3) Streamline the application evaluation process through automation
- 4) Reduce administration time by automating tax compliance and financial reporting

Our Product Specialist will work with your staff to analyze giving guidelines, evaluation criteria, measurement criteria, and organizational compliance requirements to develop the most effective online applications possible. Using your actual application specifications, our Product Specialist will create your online applications as part of a training exercise designed to leave your staff with the capacity to maintain and grow your online application process with maximum efficiency and value to your organization. Our Product Specialist will work with your project team to:

- Identify program “deal breakers,” evaluation, and measurement criteria
- Develop draft online applications for review and editing with program staff
- Implement final online applications in your organization’s production environment
- Provide training using your organization’s own online applications
